Children are a nation

sovereign in beauty.
Each breath precious
as love, their laugh-

ter a music
the gods
die to hear.

If you hurt one
in anger

you can know
forgiveness.

By war, you'll lay you down to sleep not man nor woman

but a sack of roaring bones.